DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
2. Claims 3-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
3. Claims 3-10, line 1 the term "apparatus" should be replaced with --tool-- in order to be consistent with the parent claims.
4. Claim 7 recites the limitation "pumping pressure strokes" in line 3. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tailby.

Tailby discloses a well tool comprising an outer member 10, an inner member 12, the outer member has upwardly facing jet 26A and downwardly facing jet 22B, the inner member has a bore (not numbered) permitting fluid to the downward jet, means 24 for causing longitudinal movement of the inner member, thereby closing the downward jet and opening the upward jet as specified in the claimed combination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

9. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Freeman alone, or in the alternative in view of Tailby.

Freeman discloses a well tool that includes an outer member 20, an inner member 140, the outer member has upper jet 48 and downwardly facing jet 64, the inner member has a bore 86 permitting fluid to the downward jet, means 200 for causing longitudinal movement of the inner member, thereby closing the downward jet and opening the upward jet. However, the upper jet 48 is not upwardly facing as specified by the claims. The function of the upwardly facing jet of the instant invention functions as the upper jet of Freeman, which is to place pumped fluids into the upper annulus of the wellbore. It would be considered an obvious design choice to use an upwardly facing jet in a lower portion of the tool of Freeman in order to produce the equivalent function of expelling fluids to travel upwardly in the well annulus.

Tailby teaches a tool as stated above with upwardly facing jet 26A for the purpose of obtaining maximum coverage of the well bore with pumped fluids.

It would have been considered obvious to one having ordinary skill at the time the invention was made to have substituted the lateral upper jet of Freeman with an upwardly facing jet in order to direct pumped fluids into the upper annulus as desired.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Davis teaches a well tool having upwardly and downwardly facing jets.
